

How much is Disney Plus monthly? Disney Plus Monthly Subscription Cost Explained

Disney+ has become one of the world's most popular streaming platforms, offering content from Disney, Pixar, Marvel, Star Wars, National Geographic, and more. With a growing library of movies, series, and exclusive originals, many viewers are interested in subscribing to Disney+. A key question for potential subscribers is the monthly cost. Disney+ pricing can vary depending on the country, the chosen plan, and whether the subscription is bundled with other services.

United States Pricing

In the United States, Disney+ offers two main subscription options. The Disney+ with ads plan costs approximately $11.99 per month. This plan allows users to access almost all Disney+ content at a lower price but includes limited advertisements during streaming. For viewers who prefer an uninterrupted experience, the Disney+ Premium (ad-free) plan costs around $18.99 per month. Subscribers who choose the annual billing option can pay $189.99 per year, which is equivalent to roughly $15.83 per month, providing some savings compared to the monthly plan.

The recent price increase in the United States took effect in late 2025. Disney cited the growing cost of content production, platform maintenance, and expansion of exclusive titles as reasons for the change. Despite the increase, many users find the service valuable due to its extensive library of popular franchises like Marvel, Star Wars, and Pixar films.

Bundles and Additional Options

Disney also offers bundle options in the United States that include Disney+, Hulu, and ESPN+. These bundles come in both ad-supported and ad-free versions. For example, a bundle with Disney+ (ad-free), Hulu (with ads), and ESPN+ costs around $19.99 per month, making it a cost-effective choice for families or sports fans who want access to multiple streaming platforms at a reduced combined price.
